

Visit Corte & The Citadel

Spend the day in the charming old capital and experience Corsican culture and history

About an hour from Calvi lays Corte, the old capital of Corsica. Corte is still an important town on the island, the only university is placed here with over 3000 students. It was from 1755 until 1769 Corte was capital on the island. Pascal Paoli was then the leader.

We take you to Corte, drop you off in the middle of town and then you have a couple of hours to spend as you like. Visit the old Citadelle and the Corsican history museum, walk around in the old town, coffee break on place Paoli or spend time in some of the nice shops. The choice is yours!
